

JOHN CULLEY GUEST OF ROTARY CLUB AT LUNCHEON

John Culley, recently elected president of the National Board of Pharmacy, was the guest of the Ogdens Rotary club at luncheon at noon at the Weber club. The event was planned as a tribute to the Ogdens man who had been so highly honored by the national organization. It was also for the purpose of having President Culley explain the purposes of the organization.

In a brief address, Mr. Culley explained the state and national boards and what they are accomplishing and their future aims.

Mr. Culley said the national board was now making an effort to secure commissions in the army for pharmacists. At the present time a pharmacist could not go higher than a corporal.

The State Board of Pharmacy gave a dinner at the Hermitage last evening in honor of their vice president, John Culley, who was recently elected president of the National Board of Pharmacy.

The members of the board congratulated the Ogdens druggist upon the honor that had been bestowed upon him. They also expressed the wish that the national organization would reelect Mr. Culley so that he could give a banquet to the board next year.

The honored guest thanked his fellow members for their congratulations and said that he hoped their wish would come true. He then told of a trip to the national meeting in Chicago and the work that had been accomplished.

The board members present were President and Mrs. James L. Franklin, Salt Lake; Secretary and Mrs. W. H. Dayton, Salt Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Alex McDougal, Provo; Mr. and Mrs. Roy McMillister, Logan; Mr. and Mrs. John Caley, Ogden.

PETITION SIGNED BY LOCAL CLOTHIERS

The petition signed by practically all of the leading clothiers of Ogden, asking that strict legislation be enacted against the so-called Roberts system of tailoring and other systems of similar nature, was ordered filed at the meeting of the city commissioners this morning, following an amendment to the city ordinances on the matter passed Tuesday morning.

The amendment provides that operators of all systems of distributing clothing whereby certain people are to obtain clothes at a price less than the actual value of the merchandise, shall pay an operating license of $500 annually, payable in advance.

EMPLOYEE ON U. P. STRUCK BY TRAIN

Lewis Dutton, an employee of the Union Pacific Railroad company, was seriously injured at 3:45 Tuesday afternoon, when he was struck by a train, near Evanston, Wyoming.

The laborer was at work cleaning the yards when an eastbound train struck and hurled him several feet. He was knocked unconscious by the blow. The man was brought to Ogden at 10:45 this morning.

Witnesses of the accident say Dutton was standing on a track next to an engine which was giving off steam. The noise of the steam and the fact that a wind was blowing in the opposite direction of the approaching train apparently deadened the sound.

The extent of the man's injuries are not entirely known. The main blow, however, is said to have been on the head.

Henry Ford Wins Nomination for U. S. Senatorship

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 28.—The result of the senatorial fight definitely determined in the nomination of Commander Truman H. Newberry as Republican and Henry Ford as Democratic candidate, interest today in Tuesday's primaries swung to the fight being waged for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Incomplete returns on the Republican senatorial contest from 64 out of 83 counties in the state gave Newberry a plurality of 13,931 over Henry Ford who was a candidate on both tickets, and Charles E. F. Osborn.

In the Democratic balloting, however, the Detroit manufacturer won an easy race by his lone opponent, James W. Helm, figures today being two to one in favor of the candidacy.

G. L. BECKER SPEAKS TO BOYS ABOUT TO GO TO CAMP

Parley Anderson and Ellis J. Larson, two employees of the Becker Manufacturing company, were tendered a farewell banquet by the company last night. The two young men, who are to leave tonight for Camp Lewis, were presented with signet rings and soldier watches by G. L. Becker. About thirty-five officers and employees of the company and representatives of the local papers were present.

In speaking for those present G. L. Becker said:

"Friends: We have assembled here at this farewell dinner in honor of Parley Anderson and Ellis Larson, who are going to war tomorrow. We are here to break bread with you, to congratulate you and to wish you God-speed and a safe return."

"You are lucky fellows. No greater honor can come to any man than to be privileged to put on the khaki uniform of Uncle Sam, the greatest uniform on earth, and fight for his country and to need be, lay down his life at the altar of his country, especially in so righteous a cause as that in which we are engaged."

"Never was there a more righteous cause. Unselfish, without any aim of conquest, striving solely for the rights of humanity and the liberty of the peoples of the world."

"Some weeks ago, in his wonderful speech for the Red Cross, President Wilson took occasion to repeat the story about an Indian who had been drafted and he returned home on a furlough. Someone asked him how he liked the service, and he said: 'No good. Too much salute, not enough shoot.' Then he was asked whether he knew what he was fighting for, and he replied: 'Fighting to make the whole damned world Democratic party.'"

"You are not going to fight to make the whole world Democratic party. You are going to fight for democracy and human freedom and the liberty of mankind, against the most inhuman, relentless, barbaric power that ever threatened civilization."

"In a speech delivered at the Chicago auditorium many months before war was declared, I heard our great president say that Europe was seeking red, that he didn't know how long he could keep the United States out of war, but he would try his best with God's help. It wasn't possible to keep out. There are some things that cannot be done, that cannot be endured. Now the great, forbearing, peace-loving and gentle Uncle Samuel has donned his fighting clothes, and somebody is going to have an unmerciful thrashing. Yours is the privilege to help in that great adventure. Yours is the glory and honor, and well may you be proud of it. Well may we all be proud of you. One is thrilled with pride to read of the glorious deeds of our American soldiers' over there. Yours is the privilege to participate, and we all envy you. I would give a great deal to be able to go with you. You go forth as me not the great west, and we know we are, we will manfully uphold its best traditions."

"But while the honor and glory is greater for the soldiers at the front, we must not overlook the fact that there is a solemn duty that must be performed by the soldiers who remain at home. We must work and save, and produce the sinews of war. Wasn't it Lord Nelson who said before that famous naval battle, 'England expects every man this day to do his duty.' It is our duty to see that you are fully equipped. You must have clothing and food and ammunition and the essentials with which to fight effectively and successfully, and more than all, we must see that you go with the full conviction that the great American nation is unitedly behind you and that you shall not want and cannot fail."

"In behalf of your fellow-workers, I have the honor of presenting each of you with a soldier's kit and signet ring."

"On behalf of fellow employees I take pleasure in presenting each of you with this soldier's wrist watch. I hope it will serve you with good time and I voice the hope and wish of all here that sooner or later, as time rolls on, when you have driven the brutal Hun to his lair, you will return to us safe and well and happy, and rich in the greatest of all rewards, the knowledge of having unselfishly done your full duty."

ORPHEUM OPENS TO- NIGHT WITH "WHY MARRY," A GOOD PLAY

Tonight will mark the formal opening of the legitimate season with one of the best shows that will visit Ogden the coming year and one of the best cast of players that has ever appeared in Ogden. "Why Marry," the new comedy is the play and Nat C. Goodwin is in the leading role with other distinguished players supporting him.

"Why Marry?" is most frequently compared with George Bernard Shaw's "Getting Married." Historically, it was written before the Shaw play. The comment most frequently heard on it is that Mr. Williams supplies the element of action which Mr. Shaw chose to do without.

The dialogue is brilliant and incisive. The people are real and, as the author describes them, the story has to do with the affairs of Jean, a younger sister who has been brought up to be married and nothing else; Rex, an unmarried neighbor, who has not been brought up to be anything but rich; Lucy, the hostess of the house party where the action of the play transpires, who is trying her best to be "just an old-fashioned wife" in a new-fashioned home; Uncle Everett, a judge, who belongs to the older generation and yet understands the new and believes in divorce; John, who owns the house and most everyone in it—and does not believe in divorce; Cousin Theodore, a clergyman and yet a human being, who believes in everything—except divorce; Helen, the host's other sister whom everyone wants to marry but who doesn't want to marry anyone and Ernest, a scientist who believes in neither divorce nor marriage, but makes a great discovery.

The play is about marriage—the one thing, as the author says, we all want to enter, avoid or escape.

Selwyn and Company, under whose direction it is produced have assembled a cast of unusual distinction including Nat C. Goodwin, Edmund Brees, Ernest Lawford, Leonard Mudie, Louis Robb, Louise Randolph, Anne Morrison and a number of others.—Advertisement
